Vargas Commits Suicide

President of Brazil
Whips Out Gun, Puts
Bullet Thru Heart
After His Overthrow

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazil's old iron man, Getulio Vargas, sent a bullet through his heart and died in his palace today after 58 generals forced him to quit as president.

"To the wrath of my enemies I leave the legacy of my death," said a note left by the 71-year-old chief of the world's fourth largest country.

"I take the sorrow of not being able to give to the humble all that I wished."

Vargas stepped down from the presidency at dawn and shot himself in his quarters at Catete Palace, the Brazilian White House. Gen. Caedo da Castro, chief of his military staff, with him. Police said Vargas suddenly whipped a pistol from his pocket and shot, dying almost immediately.

He thus fulfilled a promise he had made Sunday night—that he would leave office only under arrest or dead. That was after 26 general officers of the air force asked him to resign to calm a tense political and military situation. Today 32 general officers of the army joined in the demand for Vargas' ouster.

The army officers' petition was presented to Vargas this morning at Catete Palace. It was announced the president, who came to power in 1930 and ruled all but five years since then, had agreed to ask congress for a leave of absence. Four hours later he was dead.

Joao Cafe Filho, vice president since 1951, was in line to succeed Vargas.

The crisis that brought Vargas' ouster and death began Aug. 5 with the slaying of an air force major, Ruben Vaz, during an attempt to assassinate Carlos LaCorda, an anti-Vargas editor. The slaying aroused widespread indignation in both the military and the press. This grew when it was discovered that members of Vargas' personal body guard were involved. Vargas dissolved the guard.

The crisis broke into rioting Aug. 11 following a mass for Maj. Vaz. Two persons were injured and campaign posters for Vargas' Brazilian Labor Party (PTB) were torn down.

"Vargas out!" shouted the mob. The military acted quickly to prevent further disturbances. The army, navy and air force issued a joint declaration pledging their support of the constitution.

Meantime the air force and police arrested Cimerio Eurides de Almeida, member of the guard, and Jose Antonio Soares, a palace employee as involved in the LaCorda plot. They also seized Joao Alcino de Nascimento, as the alleged trigger man.

The situation arose at a time Brazil was undergoing severe economic stress. Last week the price of coffee was forced down, in terms of American dollars, and there have been predictions of further blows against Brazilian currency.

The air force, with Vargas' permission, obtained the personal papers of Gregorio Fortunato, husky former head of the disbanded presidential guard, and these papers may have provided material for the final push against Vargas.

The papers, widely published, purported to show influence peddling by Fortunato. This increased the troubles for the government already under attack for alleged corruption.

Crossroads Comment

... by G.H.S.

The black widow spider infestation is not confined to any particular area of Sedalia. They have been found in the west part of town. Now a fellow employee, Chester Eding, having read my article about spiders, revealed that he found one in the backyard of his home on South Lamine. He and his little boy were storing tomato poles when Eding found a dead one crushed by the handled sticks, no doubt. He instructed his child about the danger of the black widow and its red hour-glass identification. The boy remarked he had picked up the spider previously—which gave Chester the heart palpitation—although it appears the spider was already dead when the child picked it up.

A little more looking around the premises may be advisable for Sedalians, and a course of instruction for the children about leaving "bugs" alone. —G—

I am informed that some readers are skeptical about my experience of finding a three-inch stick of dynamite under my porch, while looking for spiders. "Nothing like that could happen in Sedalia," they say. Oh, no? Well, I'll just hand that stick over to the first skeptic who wants to examine the blamed thing, and he can dispose of it.

However, a skeptic would probably only blow himself sky-high trying to prove to me the dynamite was only a fire cracker. So, on second thought, I'm going to let Chief of Police Neighbors examine and dispose of it. He's no skeptic.

Thursday Is Day Off For Sedalia; Democrat Will Appear As Usual

Thursday afternoon all Sedalia takes off to go to the fair.

Businesses are closed that afternoon for Sedalia and Pettis County Day festivities.

The Democrat will be published as usual, but the business office of the newspaper will be closed from noon on that day.

Places Mac Charges In 5 Categories

Watkins Terms Them 'The Most Important' Of Original 46 Filed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special Senate committee today announced five categories of charges on which it will start public hearings next Tuesday on the question of whether the Senate should censure Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), chairman of the bipartisan six member committee, said the charges seemed to be "the most important" of 46 filed by three senators who have urged that McCarthy's conduct be officially condemned.

He emphasized, however, that these did not preclude the committee from considering all the charges during the course of the public hearings, which will start Aug. 31, one day later than previously scheduled.

The five categories include:

1. Alleged "incident of contempt of Senate or a senatorial committee" by McCarthy, centering largely around his failure to testify before a Senate Elections subcommittee investigating his finances in 1950.

2. "Incidents of encouragement of United States employees to violate the law and their oaths of office or executive orders" in McCarthy's appeal to federal employees to give him classified information about alleged Communists or subversives.

3. "Incidents involving receipt or use of confidential or classified documents or other confidential information, from executive files," in connection with his receipt of a purported summary of an FBI espionage report in the McCarthy-Army hearings.

4. Incidents involving alleged "abuses" of other senators. Under this heading, the committee referred to attacks McCarthy leveled at Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ) and other members of the Senate subcommittee that investigated his financial affairs.

5. The charge that McCarthy abused Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker, commanding officer at Camp Kilmer, N.J.

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A special crew of tabulators worked in the secretary of state's office today, making the official canvass of Missouri's Aug. 3 primary election voting.

The count started yesterday when Gov. Phil M. Donnelly formally opened the first county returns.

Bill Davis, chief clerk, said he doubted that the checking would be finished today.

Prison Fire Causes Flurry, Little Damage

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A small fire in a 64-year-old storage building at the Missouri Penitentiary caused a lot of excitement but little damage late yesterday afternoon.

Ike Signs Anti-Red Measure

History-making Bill Also to Crack Down On Red Infiltration Of Labor Unions

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed legislation outlawing the Communist party.

The history-making measure the President approved at his vacation headquarters here also is designed to crack down on Red-infiltrated labor unions.

Eisenhower signed the bill in his tiny second-floor office at the Lowry Air Force Base administration building.

The President's decision to approve the bill with its outlawing provisions, for which the administration did not ask, was announced by Press Secretary James C. Hagerty at Eisenhower's vacation headquarters here.

Administration doubts about the bill—revised before it passed to overcome a principal objection—were based on concern as to whether it would make "propaganda martyrs" of Reds in this country and drive them further underground.

In his radio-television address last night on the record of the Republican 83rd Congress, Eisenhower did not disclose whether he would sign the bill. He did say the administration has had to forge "new weapons in order to defeat internal communism."

"The great thing we wanted to do was to find effective means of eliminating the Communist or subversive from any point where he could possibly damage us, but to do it by constitutional process," he said.

The goal, he said, has been to make certain that anyone questioning about communism "would be protected also."

The bill outlawing the Communist party overhauled the administration's mark on anti-Red legislation when an election-bound Congress enthusiastically passed it on the last day before adjournment. The vote: Senate, 79-0; House, 265-2.

It was an unexpected offshoot of a bill, requested by the administration, to strip Communist-infiltrated unions of rights before the National Labor Relations Board.

Republican congressional leaders succeeded only in the closing hours in removing a Democratic-sponsored provision which would have made individual Communist party membership a crime punishable by imprisonment for five years and a $10,000 fine.

The provision was killed in a Senate-House conference after leaders cautioned that the bill, in unaltered form, would be vetoed by Eisenhower.

The measure provides that the Communist party shall be denied legal rights available to all other political parties.

Watch for Webworms And Army Worms Now

The Extension Office phone has been ringing constantly regarding control of garden webworms in alfalfa.

The recommendations have been published several times previously. They are 2 pounds of toxaphene (1/3 gallon of 60% emulsifiable concentrate) or 1 1/2 pounds of DDT (3 quarts of 25% emulsifiable) per acre.

The toxaphene in the same strength (2 pounds per acre) will also control the fall army worm that is now starting to appear and also grasshoppers.

Recommendations are to spray if the crop is more than two weeks of cutting. It will need cutting in less than two weeks, it should be cut and then sprayed later is necessary.

Hereford Wins As the Junior Grand Champ

Steer Is Owned By FFA Student From Unionville

A heavy Hereford steer, owned by Donald Bongardner, Unionville FFA student, was named grand champion of the junior show at the Missouri State Fair yesterday.

Special Trains to State Fair Bring St. Louisans in Force

Bagby Defeats Dale Milking; Crowd 29,629

Bagby Celebrates Mayor's Day With Resounding Victory

Mayor Julian Bagby of Sedalia proved his mastery in the art of milking when he defeated Mayor Stanley I. Dale, St. Joseph, in the feature event of Mayor's Day at the Missouri State Fair, Monday.

It was also Radio and TV Day at the fair and representatives of the broadcasting and video stations over the state were much in evidence, most of them combining work and pleasure, making recordings to play when they returned home.

Attendance for the day reached 29,629 to beat last year's 27,071 by 2,558. This makes the total attendance for the year 166,960 as compared with 148,417 the first three days of 1953's exposition.

There was no question about the milking champion when Mayor Bagby was presented his championship ribbon and a two-pound roll of Midget Longhorn cheese after the mayors' milking contest. In a five minute period he managed to get 7 1/2 pounds of milk while Mayor Dale drew 2.7 pounds.

Both men were working with grand champion Jersey cows. Dale's was from his home town, and Bagby's from his home town. It was Valiant Checkmate, Loretta, owned by C. O. Deal, Jersey Farm, St. Joseph, that Dale was milking.

She was the grand champion at the Ozark Empire Fair in Springfield last week. Bagby had Brampton Design Faye, owned by Earl Wood, Smithton. She took the grand champion honors at the Jersey Parish Show held in June at Warrensburg.

When Mayor Charles H. Schumacher of Bellfontaine Neighbors (in St. Louis County) gave the "go" signal, the two men started milking and the boy from down on the farm" showed why he was in the dairy business today. Into the bucket at Bagby's feet, as he balanced himself on a 2-4 milking stool, the milk began to stream. Nearby, Dale was getting milk, but in smaller and less steady streams.

Both mayors had quite large cheering sections and they began to cheer their favorites. One St. Joseph woman stooped down on the other side of the cow to help her mayor, but Sedalia's police chief, Edgar Neighbors, standing close by in Bagby's group, soon put a stop to any assistance.

Mayors of seven other towns were on hand to give assistance and to run-off the contest while Lloyd Evans, KWOS, Springfield, served as master of ceremonies.

Mayor Hubert Morgan, Memphis, and Mayor Louis Dierken, Concordia, served as the weighing officials for Mayor Dale. Sedalia's officials for Mayor Dale, Bagby in the same capacity for Mayor Bagby were Mayor Earl V. Noll, Moberly, and Mayor Vernon Follet, Laredo.

The official timers were Mayor C. B. Poston, Carrollton and Mayor B. Thirig, Smithton.

After the contest was over, Dale presented his milking stool, painted with his name on it, to Bagby. Dale issued the challenge some weeks ago to any mayor in Missouri to participate with him in a milking contest at the Pony Express Rodeo Sept. 22 in St. Joe. (Please turn to Page 4, Column 2)

AFTER THE MILKING CONTEST the contesting mayors watched as another mayor weighed the milk which Sedalia's Mayor Julian Bagby managed to get in a five minute period to defeat Mayor Stanley I. Dale, St. Joseph. Bagby is at left, Dale at right and in the center, doing the weighing, is Mayor Hubert Morgan, Memphis, Mo., one of seven mayors who helped run-off the contest. (Charles Mar photo)

The little girl's father was going to take her to the fair and then her grandfather wanted to take her. That spoiled everything so she went to her mother for help.

"Mother," she said, "I don't want granddaddy to take me to the fair. I want daddy to take me. Granddaddy is too old fashioned. He wants me to ride on the dummy horses on the merry-go-round and I want to ride the live ponies."

Sedalia Group Is On Hand To Greet Them

Estimates Are That Tuesday's Attendance Will Top 50,000

St. Louisian arrived here in force today for their day at the Missouri State Fair.

Two trains from St. Louis brought more than 400 residents and many other St. Louisans and visitors from eastern Missouri arrived in private cars. Estimates were that today's attendance would equal or top last year's 50,035 fourth day visitors.

The two special trains were met at the Fair Grounds by L. C. Carpenter, state commissioner of agriculture; Ross C. Ewing, secretary-manager of the fair; Sedalia Mayor Julian H. Bagby; President Claude Boul and Secretary Chet Brown, of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce.

There also were high school bands and a parade to greet the St. Louisans.

The trains were sponsored by the St. Louis Advertising Club and the St. Louis and St. Louis County Chambers of Commerce.

Livestock barns are proving more popular now as more and more ribbon winners are known and can be spotted by the visitors. Many have gone back to see if the animals they picked earlier were the ones chosen by the judges for the championship and blue ribbons.

Elsewhere on the grounds the many exhibits are proving popular and are drawing crowds. Marsha, the little aerial star, is being acclaimed in her daily free performances in the south area (just across from the poultry building) and there, too, the Pepsi Cola program of hill-billy music is a popular event. At 5:30 p. m. the massed high school bands play their concert.

Nearby is the General Electric House of Magic, a show which has not only toured all the United States, but also has been sent on tours in Canada and South America.

Children Stage Show To Raise Polio Money

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—When five children at nearby South Roxana learned that a neighbor, four-year-old Darlene Holder, had been stricken with polio, they decided to do something to help other polio victims.

They erected an Indian teepee, made costumes, and staged a "Pow Wow" show. Four of them put on the show and the fifth sold 10-cent tickets and 5-cent soft drinks. All their neighbors were invited and almost all came.

They collected $4.50 and turned it over to the March of Dimes. The children were Judie, 11, and Jacquie, 10, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Spudick; and Mary Jane, 10, Gray, 9, and Bobby, 14, children of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Ernst.

Fair Stays Fair

If this weather holds out the fair may set its new attendance mark of half a million. The question is whether we'll hold out.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 72; 92 at 1 p. m. and 94 at 2 p. m.

One year ago today here high 96, low 69; two years ago 80, 55; three years ago 75, 63.

St. Louis Board Fires Vote Officials

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Board of Election Commissioners has fired 24 precinct officials as a result of its investigation into irregularities in the Aug. 3 primary election here.

Eighteen of the officials — nine Democrats and nine Republicans — were ousted yesterday as the board concluded its inquiry.

"The matter requires further investigation by an investigating body with greater power to develop the facts," the board said.

The board referred the matter to the U. S. attorney and the St. Louis circuit attorney for whatever action those officials might consider necessary.

But William K. Stanard II, assistant U. S. attorney who sat in on the hearings, said that on the basis of evidence presented no federal action was indicated.

He said there was no indication of any conspiracy to deprive anyone of his vote and that any possible miscount of the ballots could have been taken place because precinct officials didn't follow the board's rules.

Circuit Atty. Edward L. Dowd said his office will continue to investigate the matter and that whatever evidence is developed will be presented to a new circuit court grand jury convening Sept. 10. But Dowd said:

"The fact that the U. S. attorney's office has found no evidence of a federal law violation would tend to indicate there has been no state law violation. If there were a state law violation there would be a federal violation."

During its two-day hearing last week, the election board fired six other precinct officials and transferred six others.

The election commissioners said some of the 47 witnesses it heard last week testified they voted for candidates who were credited with not more than one vote, and in one case none, in the official tabulation in their precinct.

The board, noting that installation of voting machines "would to a great extent eliminate many of the difficulties encountered," said it couldn't settle the conflict because it has no authority to open ballot boxes for a recount.

The last 18 officials fired were from precinct 8, ward 7, precinct 11, ward 7, and precinct 21, ward 4.

In each case, the board said, the officials separated the ballots for counting, then added the totals, instead of all the officials taking part in counting all the ballots as required by the board.

Mrs. Ophelia Bowers, Blind, Wins With Cooking Entries

Mrs. Ophelia Bowers, 407 East 13th, is blind but she is a good cook so she decided to enter the "Cooks of Yesterday" and see how she came out.

The food was supposed to be in on Friday in order that it would be there early Saturday morning before the judges arrived.

When Mrs. Bowers' entries didn't come on Friday, Mrs. C. V. Jones, in charge of the foods, called her and asked her what was the matter.

"Oh," said Mrs. Bowers, "Was this the day?" and Mrs. Jones could feel the disappointment in her voice.

"Yes it is," Mrs. Jones told her, and Mrs. Bowers, who lives alone, went on to explain, "I called out to the fair and asked when the entries were supposed to be but they just told me to look in the catalog."

Of course she didn't tell them she was blind and couldn't look in the catalog. Then she asked somebody to read the piece in the catalog to her, but she got the wrong day in mind, she just misunderstood.

"Do you think you could have your things ready by 7:30 in the morning if I would come by for them?" Mrs. Jones asked.

Mrs. Bowers was so glad. She would certainly have them ready. But when Mrs. Jones went by Mrs. Bowers was upset again. She had her applesauce, her kraut, her cornbread and her cookies, but she didn't have her bread baked. There it was in the pans just ready to go in the oven, but this one morning that she wanted to get up real early she had overslept.

No place at the Missouri State Fair is there a deeper interest in exhibitors than at the Home Economics Building. Mrs. P. L. Strode, superintendent, Mrs. J. W. Newland, in charge of the household arts, Mrs. C. V. Jones, in charge of the foods, and Mrs. Marian Knight know all of the people who have been there in other years and welcome all new people. One reason they find their department fun is that there is so much human interest.

One little story is about the woman from Carrollton, Mrs. John Beckbrede, who entered cookies in the "Cooks of Yesterday." Her daughter brought them over for her from Carrollton and after she started back home she felt that there were not enough cookies on her mother's plate. There should have been 12 and she was sure that there were only six, the number required for cookies in the regular class, but this was supposed to be 12.

When the daughter got back home she told her mother. The mother was upset. She baked some more cookies and the daughter, who was going to Springfield by bus, got off the bus in Sedalia and sent the six cookies and a note of explanation by taxi out to the Home Economics Building. But they didn't need the six cookies after all because the mother had the right number on her plate—12 of them.

One of the women, Mrs. George Landes, who has been exhibiting many years, worked so hard to get her entries ready this year and when she finally got them all together and to the Home Economics Building she sat down

Then Mrs. Jones had another thought. She went to the telephone and called Pearly Bowers. She even got him out of bed, but she told him the story. "Would you come by and get your mother's bread and bring it out to me?" she asked.

The son agreed and sure enough a little later here he came with the bread.

"Mother says it's too brown, but I don't think it is," he said with anxious tone in his voice, "Is it too brown?"

Mrs. Jones looked at it and said that it wasn't. "But, how," she questioned, "Could your mother tell whether it was too brown or not?"

The son didn't know. The mother had just said it was too brown and what made her think so he didn't know.

Mrs. Bowers won first on that bread and her points added to 13 in all her entries. Of course she couldn't nose out Mrs. Payne, who had 22 points to make her champion, but she did win second place.

Mrs. Jones told the son about it and he was glad his mother won. "You call her and tell her," he said.

And so Mrs. Jones called and told her. It made her feel good how proud Mrs. Bowers was. "But tell me," Mrs. Jones said, "What made you think your bread was too brown. How can you tell whether it is brown or not?"

"By the smell," said Mrs. Bowers, and then she went on to explain that she can tell just how hot her oven is by putting her hand inside.

Nevada Suffers Second Quake In Two Months

RENO (AP)—Nevada suffered its second strong earthquake in two months late last night. No casualties were reported.

Damage appeared to center around Lovelock, 90 miles east of here, where a two-story office building showered bricks on the street.

Fallon, center of a July 6 quake, reported minor damage in its downtown area.

The road to Stillwater, 16 miles east of Fallon, was reported so badly buckled that it was impassable. Stillwater residents reported they were badly shaken.

The University of California assistant seismologist, W. C. Marion, said the shock had a Richter magnitude of "about 6"—almost as strong as the July 6 Fallon quake—and was centered "about 250 miles northeast of Berkeley, Calif." That would put it about 30 miles north of Reno on the Nevada side of the Sierra Nevada Range.

The time was 10:32:14 p.m. PDT.

The quake was felt eastward to Salt Lake City, westward to the San Francisco Bay area and north to Boise, Idaho.

San Diego also reported a rolling, which lasted there almost half an hour.

Lovelock Police Officer Gordon Richardson said buildings in the downtown section were cracked and the Lovelock Mercantile Building suffered such severe damage it will probably have to be torn down.

$181,470,000 Saving To Missourians Made By Appropriation Cuts

JEFFERSON CITY — Missouri taxpayers will save $181,470,000 through cuts which Congress made in appropriations for the fiscal year 1955 below those approved for 1954, the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce estimates.

The Chamber said a box score of federal appropriations showed that the 1955 total was $6.9 billion under 1954. Calculating that Missouri taxpayers bear 2.63 per cent of all federal taxes, the Chamber applied this percentage to the $6.9 billion figures to reach its estimate of $181,470,000 saving for Missourians.

The Chamber said, "A commendable effort has been made by Congress in cutting what was generally conceded at the outset to be a pretty tight budget." It also called attention to a number of new spending programs, most of which will be reflected in later budgets, and added: "No doubt two factors, fear of recession and election year politics, had much to do with enactment of some of these new spending programs."

Claims Her Husband Took Do-It-Yourself Advice Too Seriously

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Connie James, television actress and model, thinks her husband carried the do-it-yourself fad too far.

When she asked $12.50 for a hair-do, he said he'd do the job himself—after he learned how, the 20-year-old actress charged yesterday in a complaint for separate maintenance.

She asked her husband, Steve Ellingson, 43, who writes a do-it-yourself column for 400 newspapers, to pay her $900 monthly from earnings which she estimated at $5,000 a month. His property holdings, the complaint said, are worth $100,000.

Ellingson accused her of "intolerable extravagance" when she brought home a 97-cent house plant, and paid only half the check after inviting her parents to dinner, she charged.

They separated last Friday — right after the dinner party.

March of Dimes Envelopes Going Out to Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY—Over 397,000 Emergency March of Dimes envelopes are now being mailed to Missouri homes and businesses in support of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis campaign, August 16-31. Sparky Stalcup, state chairman, reported here today.

In the second week of the nation's polio campaign, Stalcup reported that progress exceeded his expectations and predicted a state total of at least $300,000.

Urging a prompt return of the mailers a contribution, Stalcup stressed the National Foundation's dependence upon a good return to enable continuance of patient care, polio prevention, research and education.

"Because of the heavy demands upon the Foundation for gamma globulin and for the vaccine field trial," Stalcup explained, "our chapters throughout Missouri are conducting this emergency campaign. It is the second such campaign ever conducted by the National Foundation and upon its success will depend our chapters' ability to provide help for polio patients who need it, as well as to pay for gamma globulin and evaluation of the polio vaccine field trials."

In addition to the mailers, Stalcup said that 16,156 coin collectors and emergency coin cards were used in the state. Additional campaign activities will include Mothers' March on Polio, Teen Age activities, sports, social and special events, and other traditional March of Dimes activities.

Urges Getting Advice From Foreign Clergy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham says U. S. foreign policy makers should ask advice from missionaries and churchmen in other countries when they want to know what people there are thinking about.

This should be done, Graham said yesterday, because the church men "are moving among the people where the diplomats do not go, and they can talk off the record in a way that our diplomats can't."

Graham said that on his recent tour of Europe "ministers told us everywhere that there was not much anti-American feeling." He spoke in a copyrighted interview in the magazine U. S. News and World Report.

US Revenue Agents Ask Wage Increase

ST. LOUIS (AP)—John A. Cranage of Philadelphia, president of the National Association of Storekeepers-Gaugers, says the federal government's revenue agents who compute the liquor taxes want a $700 annual wage increase.

Cranage, who made the statement here yesterday at the association's convention opening, said the 825 revenue agents involved are members of the organization. He said the gaugers will seek a higher classification in Civil Service rating, which will bring about the wage increase. Changes in the liquor laws, Cranage said, justify the higher classification.

Fall Business Looks Good, But Businessmen Are Nervous

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Hope for good fall business burns bright. But many businessmen will be privately a little nervous about it until a little more time has passed.

Signs of an upturn aren't too convincing yet. The year-long recession appears to have been halted. But some of the usual August signals—bank loans and steel output—aren't flashing an advance as they should.

If an upswing comes after Labor Day, industry's adjustment to peacetime could safely be placed in the past-history files. But if trade and output don't make the usual show of strength as the days shorten, businessmen will take another look at their plans and expectations.

They're mostly playing it cautiously now. Bank loans to business should be increasing in August as retailers stock up for fall trade and wholesalers order for Christmas. This August, businessmen are staying away from the banks.

Investigators Say High Wind Contributed To Airliner Crash

MASON CITY, Iowa (AP)—Government and airline investigators of a Braniff Airways DC3 plane crash which claimed 11 lives here Sunday have decided a raging wind and rain storm was a "contributing cause," Coroner Ralph E. Smiley says.

The investigators, who examined the wreckage of the plane yesterday, said they were not immediately ready to discuss their preliminary findings.

But Smiley, who received their preliminary report, said it indicated that the weather was a "contributing factor" in the crash.

See Necessity For Re-arming West Germany

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Democrats and a Republican senator voiced dismay today over the European Defense Community deadlock and said the United States may soon have to move directly toward rearming West Germany.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) labeled the failure at Brussels to reach agreement on the six-nation European army project "a victory for the Soviet Union." If no EDC solution is found, he said, the German Federal Republic should be given sovereignty "as soon as practicable."

Sen. Russell (D-Ga) said possible loss of Germany to Communist domination would be "catastrophic," while Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) said an EDC collapse would mean the United States should "by all means" move to rearm the former enemy.

State Department Press officer Henry Syda said yesterday the department will want to study "the whole picture" before commenting on the Brussels collapse.

President Eisenhower in his broadcast to the nation last night discounted what he termed "gloomy predictions about Europe" as the result of the Brussels stalemate.

"There is still something to be done in that region, and we are going to do it," he said. He did not specify what this might be, but Washington officials were reported searching desperately for some formula to salvage the multi-nation project, although most acknowledged privately they had little hope of success.

If compromise attempts fail, it was said the United States and Britain were ready to go ahead with plans to end their occupation of Germany and restore sovereignty in line with a plan agreed on between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Churchill here last July.

Mansfield, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the EDC deadlock, defection to East Germany of two former West German officials and increasing pressure from Russia have forced a "crisis" on West German Chancellor Adenauer. "In many respects," he said, it is "the greatest danger we've faced since the end of World War II."

"If we want to stay in Western Europe," he said in an interview, "we must bring in Germany. We must offer them something to counter a possible Russian offer of unification coupled with the return of former German lands and make a nonaggression or friendship treaty."

One alternative to EDC, Mansfield said, would be an invitation to West Germany to join the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and make a contribution of men and arms that way.

The flashlight was invented about 1898.

Ike Tells US 83rd Congress Did Fine Work

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower told the nation's voters last night the Republican 83rd Congress chucked up a fine record toward assuring a stronger, better America. He urged them to remember that when they go to the polls in the November congressional elections.

In a nationwide radio and television address, the President sounded an optimistic note about the security of Western Europe in the face of collapse of European defense army talks at Brussels.

"Don't be too discouraged," he said.

The great statesmen of Europe are his friends, he said, and "I want peace as much as you and I do."

"They are not licked yet," he said. "And we are certainly not licked. Let us not lose faith in them. There is still something to be done in that region, and we are going to do it."

The rest of the half-hour address was exclusively a plug for the administration and the record of the GOP-run Congress which wound up last Friday.

The President, vacationing here, spoke from a Denver TV studio. He talked from notes on cue cards in front of the cameras, stood in front of a desk on which he leaned part of the time, and occasionally he drove his left fist into his right hand to emphasize points. He was flanked by the American flag and the presidential banner.

His warm praise for the GOP-controlled Congress—in which Republicans held only a slim majority over Democrats—dealt with enacted legislation which he said would, for example, cut taxes by nearly $2 billion dollars, expand social security coverage, increase farm benefits, shift present rigid farm price supports to a system of flexible props, and provide new wealth and subversion at home.

Eisenhower made no call in so many words for maintenance and tightening of GOP control of Congress in the fall elections, but he did say:

"If we are going ahead with this (administration) program, if you want it to go ahead, the decisions are largely up to you. Because it is the character of the 84th Congress that will determine Can we go ahead and push through all these programs for the benefit of America or will they be stopped by some kind of political arguments."

"We want to go ahead. We are sure that you want us to go ahead. All my mail shows exactly that; that you, with us, are looking forward to peace abroad, greater security, and greater and greater prosperity at home."

He said the White House went to get 64 times in Congress in behalf of enactment of administration measures.

"Now, 54 of them were enacted into law," he added. "We did not always make home runs, but anyway we did have 54 hits. Some of them aren't quite all that we wanted, but that after all is a batting average of .330, and any baseball fan will tell you that is pretty good going in any league."

The President's arithmetic was off a bit. Actually, on the basis of his figures, the average was .344.

Eisenhower dealt at length on the tax revision bill which he said will save taxpayers $7,400,000,000 a year.

"This is money you spend for yourselves, instead of the government spending for you," he declared. "You are using your own decisions instead of a bureaucrat's decision."

He also claimed a two-thirds cut in federal deficits—he said their size was "appalling when he took office—and declared: "We are well on the way toward a goal, finally, of achieving a balanced budget in our income and our outgo."

But he added that his is "a human administration" which hasn't placed "the pocketbook above the heart."

On that point, he pointed to enactment of legislation in the fields of housing, social security, health and agriculture, and said it's all designed to make America a better, more secure place in which to live.

He defined his domestic program this way:

"It has been a liberal program in all those things that bring the federal government into contact with the individual; ... it tries to be human, considerate and sympathetic."

"But when it comes to the economic side of this country, your pocketbook and your taxes, it tries to be conservative."

He called it "a great program ... a program to benefit all Americans."

Mrs. Nola Rife, 36, Kansas City, Kan., was painfully injured about 8:55 p. m. when struck by an automobile driven by Joseph B. Cochran, 510 East Third, at Main and Ohio.

Mrs. Rife is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cable, 805 West Main, said she was walking south on Ohio, crossing Main street. Mr. Cochran who was accompanied by his wife said he saw her and honked his horn and she veiled at the woman and she failed to stop. "It all happened so quickly," Cochran said.

Mrs. Rife was taken to the Bothwell hospital in the McLaughlin ambulance, where she was X-rayed and found to be suffering a fracture of the right shoulder, abrasions on both knees, possible internal injuries and bruises. She was treated by Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher.

Bagby

When Bagby accepted, through Claude Boul, president of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, he issued a challenge for a preliminary contest at the State Fair.

When Dale presented the milk stool to Bagby at the fair, someone asked if he still wanted the second contest. He replied "this makes that contest even more necessary. I certainly want Mayor Bagby to be in St. Joseph Sept. 22."

Bagby replied, "I'll be there to win."

The Missouri Butter and Cheese Institute, which operates the Dairy Bar in the Agriculture Building, presented the champion milkster with the two pounds of fine cheese and the fair presented him with a "champion" purple ribbon.

That was the highlight of Monday at the fair, aside from the big attractions—the horse races in the afternoon and the horse show at night in front of the grandstand.

tor of the First Methodist Church here.

Whitley Woodson was at the fair Monday but he looked different. Usually Whitley is the clown and without his baggy pants, top hat and a coat of make-up he is a familiar figure. Wearing his own face, friends had to look twice to be sure it was their old buddy Woodson for they never expected to see him at the fair without his fancy get-up.

Gov. Donnelly will be honored tomorrow on Governor's day, by the Missouri Bakers Association, which will be observing Bakers' Day. The chief executive will be presented a huge cake. It has been especially decorated for this occasion.

There were no calls at the fairgrounds fire station Monday.

Two girls of the Ellington High School Band fell victims of heat exhaustion as they paraded at the fairgrounds at about 12:30 p. m. Tuesday. They were taken to Bothwell Hospital by ambulance, where Dr. C. Proctor treated them. The girls are Miss Patty Davis, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Davis; and Miss Alberta Ashberry, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ashberry.

The Courthouse was closed today for the fair and will be closed again on Thursday, closing the same days off as the City Hall. The Red Cross office will be closed all day Thursday.

Lets Bear Eat His Fill From Blueberry Pail

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn. (AP)—R. L. O'Brien worked tediously to fill a pail with blueberries.

Then he left the pail under a tree and started to fill another. Hearing a bush cracking, he looked up and saw a bear gobbling down the berries.

"What was I doing?" O'Brien replied to a question. "I was whistling, but loud, to let the bear know where I was so he'd go the other way. Only had a jackknife with me."

Mississippi Candidates Await Tally

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi's senior senator and lieutenant governor waited out the long day as voters began marking ballots at 7 a. m. in today's Democratic primary for U. S. senator.

Victory in the primary means election in staunchly Democratic Mississippi.

Republican James A. White is entered in the November general election but is expected to get only a token vote.

Sen. James Eastland last night predicted a 100,000-vote victory. Earlier in the campaign he described "segregation and communism" as the two major issues.

His opponent, Lt. Gov. Carroll Gartin, basically agrees with him. Both agree segregation is here to stay and both oppose communism.

Gartin, also predicting victory but by a smaller margin, went again on television and radio in his final bid for votes.

The 41-year-old lieutenant governor said his election would be "a great victory for the people over the professional politicians."

The campaign's basic issue boils down to "seniority vs. devotion to duty."

The 49-year-old Eastland emphasized his 12 years Senate experience and his membership on the Senate Agriculture and Judiciary committees.

Gartin replied that his "devotion to duty" would be more valuable than Eastland's seniority, which Gartin claims is used mostly on the senator's 6,000-acre plantation.

A light turnout is expected because of a lack of local races to stir up interest. Most estimates are around 200,000, less than half the estimated registration.

Voters in the 6th Congressional District in southeast Mississippi decide whether U. S. Rep. William M. Colmer will represent the district for his 12th term.

Colmer, dean of Mississippi's delegation in Congress, is opposed by State Sen. Clem Britton and Walter Lowry of Hattiesburg, a farmer and carpenter.

Five other congressmen won Democratic nomination — which means election — without opposition.

Schroeder Firm Apparently Low On SAFB Bid

The Schroeder Construction Company, St. Joseph was the apparent low bidder on the construction of a post exchange at the Sedalia Air Force Base. The bids were opened Tuesday by Col. Keith R. Barney, district supervisor of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The Schroeder bid was $102,997, the government estimate on the project being $98,050.

The work will consist of construction of a one story wood frame building with concrete substructure. The approximate floor area is 10,700 square feet, and will have water and sewer lines, sidewalks, excess drive, and electrical and steam distribution. The company has 240 days to complete the project after it is officially awarded.

Other bidders on the project were: M. J. Gorzik Co., Kansas City, $117,373; Industrial Construction Co., Kansas City, $113,350; Secor Construction Co., Oklahoma City, $119,253; Martin K. Eby Co., Wichita, Kan., $117,864; and A. V. Middleton, Nelis, Neb., $123,269.

Man Is Shot Fatally In a Disturbance At Gypsy Camp

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. (AP)—A man was shot to death last night in a disturbance at a gypsy camp in what Butler County authorities described as a row over the price to be paid for a Gypsy bride.

Dead of a shotgun wound in the neck was Johnny Williams, 24. Sheriff Bill Brent said George Peres, 38, admitted the shooting but told authorities he acted in self defense.

Members of the two Gypsy families became engaged in an argument, the sheriff said, at a party in celebration of the betrothal of Peres to Lena Williams, 38-year-old sister of the victim.

The sheriff and Coroner Grover Greer said questioning of the Gypsies indicated that Johnny Williams, acting as spokesman for his family, first agreed to accept $500 from Peres for the betrothal price and later upped the figure to $2,000.

The county officials said it was a custom of Gypsies for a groom to pay an agreed amount to the family of his bride.

Dulles Says US Forces Have Justification to Repel Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today American forces would be justified in defending some Nationalist-held islands between Formosa and the Chinese mainland from any Communist attack.

Dulles told a news conference it would be up to American military leaders to decide which islands in addition to Formosa they want to defend as part of their overall strategy for aiding the Chinese Nationalist stronghold.

Dulles spoke up in the face of talk by Peiping of "liberating" the island of Formosa, now held by Chiang Kai-shek and the Chinese Nationalists. U. S. leaders have been inclined to discount the Peiping talk.

President Eisenhower already is on record as saying the U. S. 7th Fleet would protect Formosa from a Red attack. Dulles appeared to be extending this line of reasoning by including some of the smaller, Chiang-held islands near Formosa.

In talking about Europe, Dulles told newsmen he deeply regrets France's unwillingness to agree with five other Western European countries on the European Army plan. But he said he has not given up hope France will ratify the European Army agreement when it confronts the ultimate decision.

In answering questions, Dulles also made these other points:

1. He tentatively plans to leave next Tuesday for Manila to represent the United States at Southeast Asia defense conference and to confer with Filipino leaders about defense problems in the area. He may stop off briefly in Japan and Formosa on his way home.

2. He refused to say whether Britain and the United States definitely plan to go ahead with a program to restore West German sovereignty should France fail to approve the European defense project.

3. He deeply regrets the death of Brazilian President Getulio Vargas. Dulles said he has sent a message expressing his profound sympathy to the Brazilian foreign minister.

4. Plans for dealing with possible subversion and arrangements to better economic conditions in the region will be considered at the Southeast Asia defense conference opening in Manila Sept. 6.

He declined to spell out any precise ideas on this point but said two treaties—one dealing with military problems and the other with economic arrangements—might be possible to bring in nations which would not join a military alliance.

In discussing the reports from Peiping about a possible invasion of Formosa, Pentagon sources said no serious evidence has shown up in intelligence reports that would indicate an imminent attack on the Chinese mainland.

Dulles said the basic instruction to the 7th Fleet is to defend Formosa against any Red Chinese attack but noted that there are a number of other islands held by Chiang and said defending some of these may be so intimately connected with the defense of Formosa that the military would be justified in defending them.

Dulles reported he plans to take no part in the election campaign this fall but that he has tentative speeches before groups he called "nonpartisan national organizations."

He opened his weekly meeting with reporters by reading a statement in which he recalled that it was 10 years ago today that he conferred with former Secretary of State Cordell Hull to develop a bi-partisan foreign policy.

He said his feeling of nonpartisan support has been maintained. "I feel that the Democrats have been similarly cooperative during the Eisenhower administration."

"We have, I believe, developed a national policy of stability and continuity such as is needed in these dangerous times."

Judge David Blair Asks Supreme Court To Grant Retirement

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—David E. Blair Jr., judge of the Springfield Court of Appeals, asked the Missouri Supreme Court today to retire him on half pay because of his age.

He was 80 Aug. 16. He told the court physical infirmities prevented him from carrying out the duties of his office efficiently.

Under Missouri law he would be eligible for half pay until the end of his present term, Dec. 31, 1956. After that he asked the court to make him a special commissioner so he could obtain one-third pay the rest of his life. His present salary is $16,000 a year.

New SS Bill Will Assist Over 6 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—Social security administration officials said today some 6½ million beneficiaries automatically get increases in their September checks after President Eisenhower signs the bill to expand the program.

September checks will be delivered about Oct. 4.

Each retired worker covered by the program will get a boost of at least $5 a month. Those getting the present maximum of $85 monthly will get $98.50. Those getting the $25 minimum will get $30. The increases will average about $6 a month.

The same minimum increase of at least $5 monthly will apply to each family unit, whether it consists of a lone survivor or several persons. The minimum for a lone survivor will become $30 monthly, instead of $18.80, but where the present benefit is $30 monthly it will be increased only to $33.80.

Other beneficiaries now on the rolls will receive generally proportionate increases based on the wage record of the retired or deceased worker, but there will be a few exceptions.

The officials told a newsmen each recipient of an August check, due to be delivered next week, will be informed by an enclosure that he or she need do nothing to get the increased benefits.

The bill also will extend old age and survivors insurance to another 10 million people, effective next Jan. 1.

This will probably push the total number of wage accounts of living persons on file to over 100 million.

New groups to be covered include an estimated 3,600,000 farm operators, 2,100,000 farm employees, 250,000 household and casual workers, 100,000 self-employed professional people such as architects, engineers, accountants and funeral directors, some 3,500,000 employees of local and state governments (if they wish to be covered), some 100,000 ministers and Christian Science practitioners (also on a voluntary basis), some 100,000 alien workers for foreign subsidiaries of American firms, some 50,000 persons employed in fishing and related activities on small vessels, and some 150,000 government employees.

The measure also broadens the social security tax base from $3,600 to $4,200 of annual pay. This means an increased tax of up to $12 a year for each covered employee and a similar boost for his employer.

One change to affect many householders trims down a requirement that a domestic servant to be eligible must work for the same employer 24 days in a quarter year and make at least $50 in cash wages.

After Jan. 1, the requirement for coverage of a domestic servant will be reduced to the $50 cash wage stipulation.

Affected housewives will have to file quarterly reports and pay the full security tax on their servants, levied at the 2 per cent rate on both employer and employee. An employer can withhold an employee's share of the tax from wages.

After Jan. 1, the eligibility standard for farm hands is to be changed from a complicated formula to a simple stipulation: an employee must make at least $100 a year from one employer.

For each $100 paid by one employer in any year, up to a maximum of $400, an employee will be credited with one-quarter of coverage. The employee's entire wages from any employer paying him more than $100 a year, however, are to be reported and credited and his benefits will be based on the total credits up to a maximum of $4,200 yearly.

Explaining how the new bill would affect persons now covered and approaching the retirement age of 65, officials said a person with full eligibility, who has been earning the maximum covered wage of $300 monthly, could retire in November and receive $98.50 a month.

Dulles reported he plans to take no part in the election campaign this fall but that he has tentative speeches before groups he called "nonpartisan national organizations."

He opened his weekly meeting with reporters by reading a statement in which he recalled that it was 10 years ago today that he conferred with former Secretary of State Cordell Hull to develop a bi-partisan foreign policy.

He said his feeling of nonpartisan support has been maintained. "I feel that the Democrats have been similarly cooperative during the Eisenhower administration."

Family Fight Ends With Both Parties Going To Hospital

A fight between Mr. and Mrs. Charles Finis, 204 East Cooper, about 8:30 p. m. Monday, resulted in both going to the hospital for treatment for numerous lacerations and bruises.

The two were taken to the Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing and Gillespie ambulances and Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher attended Finis and Dr. A. R. Maddox treated Mrs. Finis.

Mrs. Finis told officers the fight started in the kitchen, while she was ironing and continued into a front bedroom. She said she was being abused by her husband and he struck her and she struck back. She said he grabbed the iron and in the scuffle, her right forearm was badly burned. She broke away and grabbed a water pitcher and hit him with it.

Finis had numerous severe lacerations about his forehead and top of his head which necessitated the taking of several stitches. Mrs. Finis suffered cuts on her right finger of the right hand and on the side of her hand and on the side of her left arm, and a blackened right eye.

Police made an investigation.

A convalescent has many moments to remember who was thoughtful and sent flowers.

Red Cross Has Positions Open Overseas

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Opportunities for immediate placement as recreation workers in the American Red Cross overseas club program are now open for young women between the ages of 23 and 28, according to an announcement issued today by Leslie This, director of personnel, Red Cross Midwest Area Office.

The Red Cross, as part of its traditional responsibility of service to the armed forces, supplements the Army's Special Services program with a club and club-mobile program of its own to provide leisure-time activities for able-bodied servicemen.

Mr. This stated that the young women are urgently needed at this time to replace recreation workers now returning from Korea.

Ever present with the armed forces in the emergency of war, the Red Cross remains with American troops in peacetime, maintaining vital, morale-building recreation facilities for GIs where needed overseas.

To be eligible, women must have college training or special aptitude in recreation, education, music, dramatics, speech, and art. Physical fitness is essential. Those selected will receive two weeks orientation at Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D. C., and then go overseas.

Openings are available for women college graduates up to 35 years of age for recreation positions in military hospitals. Because the American Red Cross program of Service in Military Hospitals is conducted both in this country and overseas, applicants must be available for overseas assignment after a tour of duty in this country. Training and experience with groups in recreation, teaching, camping, hospitals, and other allied fields is advantageous.

For both club and recreation workers assigned overseas, the Red Cross pays maintenance and travel as well as provides an initial uniform allowance. The salary scale will be determined according to background and experience.

Women interested in receiving further information on these openings should call the Red Cross office —618.

C. of C. Says Right-to-Work Laws Aid Industrial Growth

JEFFERSON CITY—There is definite evidence that right-to-work laws are one of the influences favoring industrial development in states which have such laws," the Missouri Chamber of Commerce said today.

The Chamber cites six of the states with right-to-work laws as having had a higher percentage of increase than Missouri in average hourly earnings of production workers in manufacturing between 1949 and 1953, and says that nine such states showed a higher percentage of employment increase between those years.

grades seven and eight, Mrs. Emmett Ruffin; Manila rural school, Mrs. Ralph Chaney.

It said that Bureau of Labor Statistics reports show Missouri's percentage of increase in average hourly earnings for the five-year period was 29.3 as compared with 29.7 for Arizona, 30.5 for Arkansas, 31.7 for Florida, 29.4 for Nebraska, 29.7 for Tennessee, and 31.8 for Texas—all of which states have right-to-work laws.

"While most of these states had lower average earnings than Missouri long before they enacted right-to-work laws, the over-all increase in 13 right-to-work states between 1949 and 1953 is almost as great as Missouri's, being 26.2 per cent for the 13 states as compared with 29.3 for Missouri," the Chamber said.

It added that the number of employees in non-agricultural work increased an average of 18.7 per cent in right-to-work states, as compared with 14.3 in Missouri, and that nine of the 13 states studied showed individually larger percentage increases than Missouri. Seventeen states now have right-to-work laws, but in four, Alabama, Mississippi, South Carolina and Louisiana—they have only recently been adopted.

The Chamber said, too, that disposal income and retail sales have increased in greater proportion in most of the right-to-work states than in Missouri. It says that 12 of the states had an over all percentage increase of 5.9 in income available for spending, while Missouri's increase was 3.4 per cent and that per capita retail sales in 12 of the states increased 21.6 per cent as compared with 12.9 for Missouri.

The Chamber said letters from business men operating in states with right-to-work laws declare that these laws help industrial development in their states. It cites a Texas engineering contractor as saying that Texas has gained a number of industries from eastern states because of its right-to-work law, and an Iowa contractor as stating that the Iowa law was a "deciding factor" in bringing a number of outside industries into that state and also influenced decision of others to expand. The Chamber said letters from other states were similar.

"It would not be correct to claim that the right-to-work laws are the sole cause of this relatively great economic growth in 12 of the 13 right-to-work states," the Chamber said. "However, there is definite evidence that these laws, combined with other favorable legislation, have contributed greatly to the economic growth of these states. They have helped attract new industry and encourage business expansion, bringing increased wages to the working man and increase trade to the business man."

The Chamber, which is sponsoring a movement for a right-to-work law in Missouri, says that

17 STATES IN THE NATION HAVE NOW RIGHT-TO-WORK LEGISLATION

... how is it working?

DO RIGHT-TO-WORK LAWS GIVE REAL PROTECTION?

Right-to-Work Laws really do protect the Right to Work when either the employer or worker asks the courts to enforce the law.

Letters from businessmen operating in states having Right-to-Work Laws state that for the most part the law is obeyed and the Right to Work is actually protected.

The U. S. Supreme Court Has Said:

- ... Right-to-Work laws do not abridge freedom of speech.
- ... The right to assemble does not include the right to drive others from employment.
- ... Right-to-Work laws do not unconstitutionally impair obligations of contract.
- ... They do not deny liberty without due processes of law.

DO THEY CONTRIBUTE TO ECONOMIC GROWTH?

Right-to-Work Laws are an attraction for new industry and encourage expansion of business. There is growing evidence that Right-to-Work Laws are an important factor favorably affecting industrial development in those states which have such laws. This business and industrial expansion has resulted in increased wages, salaries, and markets.

For example, a leading Texas engineering firm, specializing in locating new plants, declares that Texas has gained many industries partly because of the Texas Right-to-Work Law.

DO THEY HURT OR HELP LABOR RELATIONS?

In April 1954, the Assistant Attorney-General of Nebraska, told the United States Senate Committee on Labor that after Nebraska's six years of experience with their Right-to-Work Law:

1. A better relationship has developed between the labor organizations and their members. Membership is now obtained by persuasion rather than coercion. This is the American way. Individual members are free to think and act and need have no fear of losing their jobs if they express ideas which are contrary to those of the organization's leaders.
2. A better relationship exists between the employer and the labor organization. The result has been that labor organizations and employers work more closely together in bringing about conditions that are satisfactory to the individual employee.
3. Labor organization membership has not decreased.
4. One of the greatest causes of strikes has been eliminated. The compulsory membership issue has been one of the primary causes of strikes.
5. Public confidence in labor organizations is being restored.

DO THEY DESTROY LABOR ORGANIZATIONS OR HAMPER COLLECTIVE BARGAINING?

Right-to-Work Laws have not destroyed labor organizations or hampered collective bargaining. The right of individuals to band themselves together to promote their well-being by voluntary unionism, or for any other lawful purpose is a right firmly established by law, and the Right-to-Work Law will specifically protect this right. We support this right fully. However, individuals must also be protected against COMPULSION... against being forced to join a labor organization or to pay tribute for the privilege of working at their chosen occupation. Payment of tribute for the privilege of working is a violation of American Freedom. So, in seeking a Right-to-Work Law, we are fighting COERCION and COMPULSION.

This is a plea for the right of every man to decide for himself a matter that affects his convictions and his livelihood. As men are protected in their right to JOIN a labor organization, so must they be protected in the right NOT to Join!

THESE ARE EQUAL RIGHTS WHICH THE LAW SHOULD EQUALLY PROTECT! — THIS IS A PLEA TO LET THE VOTER DECIDE THE ISSUE AT THE POLLS!

THE TIME TO ACT IS NOW

Let every Missouri citizen who really believes in personal freedom support this effort! A Right-to-Work Law will: 1. Protect your Right to Work regardless of your membership or non-membership in a labor organization. 2. Prohibit actions and agreements requiring compulsory membership in a labor organization or paying of dues against your will, or paying tribute as a condition of employment. Insist that your legislators give you the opportunity to vote on this RIGHT-TO-WORK LAW. Let the people decide!

Ike and Farm Supports

By Bruce Blossat

When the history of President Eisenhower's first two years in office is written, it may well be that his successful campaign for flexible farm price supports will go down as his most impressive act of domestic statesmanship.

Nor can his strong right arm, Secretary of Agriculture Benson, be forgotten in reciting the performance. In his two years in the capital, Benson has become a symbol of resistance to narrow, selfish pressures, in the service of the nation's large interests.

All efforts in the powerful Senate to continue rigid price supports on key staple crops were beaten down by the President's lieutenants and backers. Now the principle of flexibility has been endorsed by both houses, and the way has been opened for a saner farm policy.

Clearly Mr. Eisenhower did not get all he wanted. His original demand was for supports ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity. As approved by both houses, the new plan limits the range from 82½ to 90 per cent.

Yet few Presidents get everything they ask for, either in particular measures or overall. It is part of the art of government to know when to take less, and to know how much less can be taken without compromising your objective.

The President, Benson and others concerned are convinced that the 82½ to 90 per cent spread is sufficient to give the flexible plan a real trial. They obviously believe, too, that once the program is established it will be easier later to extend the range, especially if dire political consequences do not follow this first move.

While the praise is being passed around, one should not overlook those senators and congressmen who stood with the President in this test of statesmanship. It took nerve in a political year to dare what many feel will be the wrath of outraged farmers.

The stalwarts were not too numerous in the Senate. The final vote on the farm bill was 62 to 28, but the tell-tale vote was an earlier 49 to 44 tally by which the flexible program was substituted for high, rigid supports.

Some lawmakers may have been impressed by mounting evidence that Benson's persistent educational campaign with the farmers is beginning to bear fruit. Others may simply have been unable to duck the fact that adherence to high supports meant continuance of ruinous farm surpluses at staggering cost to the country.

Whatever the motives and thereon, the important thing is that the stubborn roadblock is broken. We must hope that through this hard-won breach will flow energy and imagination to give us new and better solutions to our farm problems.

Being Popular Woman Is Just Being a Nice Person

By Ruth Millett

Study the most popular woman you know, the one best-liked by both men and women, and you may find out some surprising things about her. You may discover that she couldn't by any stretch of the imagination be called beautiful. The popular woman is often a woman of average looks, who is attractive because she takes the trouble to play up her femininity.

You may also discover that she isn't the most brilliant woman you know. She is undoubtedly smart—for it takes brains to know how to get along with people—but the most intellectual woman in any group is rarely the most popular.

There's too great a temptation for the brilliant woman to want to have her brilliance recognized and for her to be impatient with other people's ideas.

She's Willing To Do Her Part
You may find that though she has a reputation for a sense of humor it is probably not based on her own quotable remarks, but one her ability to see the funny side of little everyday happenings and her readiness to laugh at herself and with others.

You will undoubtedly have to admit that she is always willing to do her part and perhaps a little more. The sponger, the loafer, the irresponsible are rarely popular with anyone who knows them well.

You will find that she has a good memory, especially for the things that are important to others, their names, their interests, their families, their accomplishments, their troubles.

The woman that everyone likes usually isn't prettier, more intelligent or wittier than others. So there is no reason why anyone who really wants popularity can't have it.

A Knotty Problem

The army has turned over a knotty fiscal problem to General Accounting Office in connection with the pay due the 21 American G.I.'s who were captured by the North Koreans and went over to the Communist side when the armistice was signed.

The families of six of these POW's have tried to collect this back pay. It runs into several thousand dollars for some of the men.

But Army officers say they can't turn over the money to relatives while the men themselves are still alive. And even if any of the men should die, his back pay will be turned over to GAO. According to unofficial reports, one of the 21, Sgt. Rufus E. Douglas of Texon, Tex., has died. Lacking official notification of the death, however, the Army keeps his money.

If any of the 21 should turn up in the United States and demand his back pay, the Army has decided it will not pay off until there's a ruling from Secretary of Defense.

Tribute

Undersecretary of Labor Arthur Larson, who was born on July Fourth, tells this story on himself:

When he was five years old, his parents took him to a big outdoor Fourth of July celebration in a grove near his grandfather's Yankton, S. Dak., farm.

"My head was full of thoughts about the birthday presents I had just received," says Mr. Larson. "I looked around at the flags, the bunting, the band on the bandstand, the fireworks going off, the orator on the platform. Finally, according to my mother, I turned to her and blushing modestly, I said: 'This is wonderful, but they really shouldn't have gone to so much trouble.'"

Handle Adolescent Boy With Firm But Kind Hand

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

"Please write about adolescent boys," a mother says, "and so put my mind at ease. I have a 15-year-old son who was once a nice robust lad but of late has become a tall, haggard-looking boy. I have had him checked but he is underweight. He watches his diet for fear of putting on weight and has become figure conscious. I am terribly worried about him . . ."

Innumerable parents have worried in this fashion about their sons, if not about being underweight about something else. By and large parents are too much concerned over the outward signs of growth and development in their boys.

Many of these adolescent changes in physique or behavior are extremely annoying to grown-ups but most of them wear off as time passes. Probably the parents rather than the boys are the most in need of encouragement.

In the case of the boy whose mother wrote, reasonable precautions to have the boy examined have been taken and in all probability too much attention should not be paid to this youngster's eating habits and overconcern about his figure.

Adolescence in boys comes somewhat later than in girls, lasts longer and carries with it different problems. It is a normal state of life and a normal stage of development. The medical problems and difficult behavior which sometimes accompany it are almost always outgrown.

The adolescent boy, roughly between 13 and 18, is half way between a little boy and a man and feels himself neither one nor the other.

Sexual instincts arise at this time and should be discussed early and frankly with father or physician. Accompanying these new sensations and awareness of the world are problems with which every boy has to wrestle to greater or lesser degree.

The adolescent boy has neither the experience nor the maturity to solve many of his new problems satisfactorily and the result is often shown in erratic and peculiar behavior, especially at home.

At this time, as much if not perhaps more than any other, a boy needs the sympathy and understanding of his parents and of adult companionship, but not to the exclusion of companionship of his own age because that would not be normal at any time.

Erratic behavior, however, should be taken in stride and not too much made of occasional lapses for conventional manners. Such lapses, providing the home life previously been satisfactory, will disappear with maturity.

A firm hand within reasonable limits is still in order during adolescence. There is no sharp dividing line between adolescence and maturity.

The normal boy should be allowed increasing freedom year by year rather than held by too tight rein for several years and then put entirely on his own. This, I believe, helps to develop the independence and stable nervous system which all parents should want for their sons.

In this column I am not discussing abnormal adolescence. Truly abnormal behavior is properly the subject for direct action after discussion between parents, school authorities and physicians.

Moving Checkers

Checkers, the famed black and white cocker spaniel belonging to Vice President Nixon, was becoming something of a problem puppy in his neighborhood until Mrs. Nixon and the two girls went to Maine on vacation, taking the dog with them.

Checkers had acquired the bad habit of sleeping in the street in front of the house. Everyone who drives along the quiet street in this residential neighborhood knows the dog. Drivers have carefully maneuvered around it, many times without even waking it up.

In an effort to keep Checkers off the street, the vice president had a doghouse built in the back yard. Still it liked to snooze on the warm pavement. The neighbors are all hoping Checkers will be broken of this habit by the time the family comes back from vacation.

Poet Didn't Know It

WASHINGTON—Sen. Stuart Symington (D., Mo.) tried quoting poetry the other day, but his memory failed him on the punch line. The Senate was discussing Asia. Republican Majority Leader Bill Knowland of California had asked Symington if he did not feel that communism in that area was a good bit like a vicious tiger which, having gobbled up one little country, would look about to find another for his next meal?

"I could not agree more heartily," said Senator Symington. "I am reminded of that poem which begins,

There was a young lady from Riga,
Who went for a walk with a tiger . . .
"We all know what happened, but I forget the last line."

Sen. Albert Gore (D., Tenn.) leaned over and said to Symington, "I thought it was a wolf." That didn't rhyme either. The limerick they were trying to remember and couldn't was:

There was a young lady from Niger,
Who smiled as she rode on a tiger.
They returned from the ride with the lady inside,
And a smile on the face of the tiger.

Cheese Boycott?

WASHINGTON — A number of Washington housewives, disgusted and angered by the tactics Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy used in the recent senatorial investigations of the Private Schine case, have decided to get even by boycotting Wisconsin cheese. They say they will not knowingly either buy or eat Wisconsin dairy products till the farmers of that state take some action to curb their junior senator or get him out of Congress.

When it was suggested to the ladies that a boycott was pretty rough business, they came right back with an answer. They learned the trick from him, and since he fought that way, they would too.

They recalled that the senator once tried to get advertisers to boycott a magazine whose articles on his activities he did not like. He also threatened a radio commentator. If a boycott was fair for him, why not for them?

Now the World Waits With Bated Breath

The World Today—Was Ike Merely Whistling?

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON — Just as gloomy winds were blowing from Europe, bearing tidings that the European Defense Community looked all but dead, President Eisenhower spoke hopefully of peace there.

He didn't say what made him so optimistic. EDC was intended to be a major piece of insurance against Russian attack.

Eisenhower told his nationwide television audience last night not to be "too discouraged" about the prospects for peace in Europe. He said some great statesmen were working on it.

But that's what they've been doing for years, particularly in a big conference last week to breathe life into EDC, and chances for the single European army never looked so bleak as now.

"There is still something to be done in that region," he said, "and we are going to do it."

If this country has any solution for the EDC dilemma, it hasn't been disclosed, although no one has been more interested in the creation of EDC than the United States.

And if the British Prime Minister, Sir Winston Churchill, and the French Premier and foreign minister, Pierre Mendes-France, found a solution they didn't indicate it after a five-hour meeting yesterday.

The Frenchman rushed to Churchill after the foreign ministers of the other EDC countries turned him down cold at Brussels last week on his ideas for the kind of EDC which the French might buy but the others wouldn't.

The single European army—made up of troops from France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—would have been, if it became a reality, a first, solid defense against Russian attack in Europe.

It would mean the six no longer could have any national armies of their own but would pool their men in a single army, wearing the same uniforms, and under a unified command chosen from among themselves.

But it would also mean letting the Germans rearm. They'd have 12 divisions in EDC. Yet that was one of the main reasons for pro-

THE STORY: Texas cowboys tear apart the town of Sage City, following a day after driving a herd to Kansas. Fighting to make the wide-open trail town law abiding is Luke Miller, the editor of a newspaper, but Jacob Fugger, who owns most of the businesses in town, strives to keep the saloons and gambling dives going. Was Tancred, the man who shot Sam Oiler, works for Miller under the name of John Bailey. A recent complication in the shooting by Hank Harpending, one of the Texas cowboys, of a local gambler, Hanky must be arrested, says Fugger, but the marshal has resigned rather than tackle the job.

X

HARPENDING and his friends were now the rulers of Sage City. They yipped and whooped and fired their guns at random, crashing a store window here and there.

Then Harpending decided to pay a visit to Jacob Fugger. He assumed that he would find him in the latter's store and rode his horse up onto the sidewalk with the intention of riding right into the store. But the doorway was not high enough and he dismounted, leaving the horse in front of the door.

That was the moment when Tancred stepped out of the Bon Ton Cafe, across the street from Fugger's Store. He saw Harpending, gun in hand, plunge into Fugger's place.

Tancred started swiftly across the street. One of Harpending's friends sent his horse forward to cut off Tancred.

"Where do you think you're going?" he demanded.

"Into the store, where else?"

The cowboy noted the lack of armament on Tancred. His code forbade him to shoot an unarmed man and while he hesitated as to how to stop Tancred, the latter went past him into the store.

Inside Fugger's Store, Harpending was advancing toward the rear. On the right, Laura Vesser watched his progress with trepidation. Two other clerks, one a middle-aged woman, the other an elderly man, were backing away before Harpending.

"I want to see the old coot," Harpending was saying. "He told the marshal to arrest me and I wanna know why."

Bill Bleek came down the stairs from the perch in the rear of the store.

"Get out of here, Harpending, if you know what's good for you."

"Well, if it ain't Mr. Fugger's errand boy," sneered Harpending. "And without a gun as usual."

"I don't fight with guns," Bleek retorted, "but if you'll put down your own gun, I'll break every bone in your body."

Harpending raised his rifle, took a careless shot at Bill Bleek. The bullet missed by inches but stopped Bleek on the stairs.

Laura Vesser could not repress a little scream and thus called Harpending's attention to her.

"Hey, what's this? Purtiest girl I've seen in Kansas." He swerved and headed toward Laura Vesser.

At that moment Tancred entered the store. Harpending did not see him. He continued toward Laura.

"I'm a ring-tailed civet cat," declared Harpending. "Here—gimme a kiss."

HE had reached the counter and suddenly lunged across it. Laura dodged and started away behind the counter. Harpending wheeled to follow and walked into the swiftly advancing Tancred. Harpending yelped in surprise, tried to lever a fresh cartridge into the chamber of the rifle, but Tancred grabbed it savagely out of his hands and threw it to the floor. Harpending went for his revolver, but it never cleared the holster.

Tancred's fist smashed into Harpending's face. He crossed with a savage blow into the middle of the counter.

Germans would dominate EDC. They didn't want to see France without a single national army of her own.

EDC couldn't come into existence without approval by the French Parliament. It hasn't approved yet. Mendes-France said he'd put the question to Parliament this month.

Mendes-France proposed a remedy for French opposition to EDC. He suggested to the other EDC ministers at Brussels last week 14 pages of changes in EDC. Unless as the rest would accept them, reports quoted him as saying, the French Parliament would vote against the project.

But those same reports said his proposed changes were so drastic that they would, in effect, scuttle any hope for EDC, a real, single European army, for years to come.

The others told him no. That, it seemed, meant the death of EDC when Parliament voted, unless some way out could be found, equally satisfying to the French and the EDC members. None has been made known officially so far.

The French, with a fear of a rearmaged Germany which may seem abnormal sometimes, might go along if the British would join EDC to give the French assurance the Germans could never run the single army.

Mendes-France may be playing a shrewd game here. He can tell the French Parliament now he made the best try he could to get changes pleasing to the French and then say without French approval EDC was dead. Faced with triff and as Harpending folded forward Tancred hit him the third and last time, on the jaw. Harpending collapsed.

Tancred stooped and grabbing Harpending by the belt yanked him up. Bleek came forward. "If you ain't the hero!" he snarled.

Tancred shot him a look of complete contempt and propelled the half-conscious Harpending to the door. He whipped it open with his left hand, then braced up Harpending with both hands.

"Here's your friend," he said to the men outside the door.

He shoved Harpending violently forward. The Texas man caromed off one of the horses, hit the hitch rail and fell on his face in the street.

The three friends of Harpending stared. Harpending was their leader. His downfall filled them with consternation. One of them half pulled a gun on Tancred, but lacking Harpending's lead he let the gun slide back.

TANCRED did not even look back. He went stiffly down the sidewalk, past the hotel, Chuck Gorey, having peered out of the saloon, was coming cautiously out of the saloon. He stared at Tancred in amazement.

"Is that Harpending back there?" he asked.

Tancred nodded his head carelessly, went past Gorey.

Tancred continued on to the corner, turned and entered the print shop.

"What's all the shooting?" Luke Miller asked.

"Just the usual," Tancred replied.

But it wasn't more than 10 minutes before Miller had the complete story from a witness. Miller wrote it all down and made certain to give the copy to Mose Hudkins to set up. In the meantime, Tancred was setting up the type for Miller's editorial.

The last copy of the Star was taken away from the press by Mrs. Miller shortly after four o'clock and Tancred read the story. "It was news, I guess, so it had to be printed," he said.

(To Be Continued)

Budget Saving

BOSTON — Rep. Ernest A. Johnson of Worcester, a barber, and Charles E. Shepard, a farmer who is budget director for a legislature ways and means committee, worked out a system which allows state agencies to use existing funds to make necessary repairs and replace essential equipment — as the need arises. Such out-of-hand repairs, with only the approval of the state budget commissioner, are credited with being far more economical than waiting a year for an appropriation—while the state property deteriorates. Johnson thinks savings are as high as a million dollars a year.

Attlee Has Two-Hour Talk With Red Boss

Editors Note—The following is from the correspondent of the London Daily Herald, organ of the British Labor movement, accompanying the Labor Party group on its visit to China.

By DERYCK WINTERTON
PEIPING (P) — Clement Attlee and his British Labor party delegation have a two-hour talk today with Mao Tze-tung, head of the Chinese government.

It is the first time that Western statesmen have made close personal contact with China's No. 1 leader. The meeting has the same historic quality as the Laborites' Moscow meeting with Premier Georgi Malenkov.

Attlee has already told Malenkov and Chou En-lai, China's No. 2 man, that everyone in Britain would be very glad to welcome them there.

It was expected he would assure Mao of the same thing.

The invitation to Chou and Malenkov was in no sense a formal one. The Labor party is not the British government, and obviously such an invitation could come only from the government.

The delegation has decided that no report on the conclusions it has reached during its trip will be made before its return to London, expected to be Sept. 14.

An interim statement will be issued then, but a full report must wait for the party conference later in the fall.

Labor Party Secretary Morgan Phillips, a member of the delegation, commented to me yesterday on American press criticisms of the group's visit to China.

"The fact that the delegates have come to China does not mean they have been converted to communism any more than the fact that I have visited neither every Communist country makes me a 'fellow traveler,'" he said.

"But it is absurd to ignore the existence of a nation of 600 million people which must play a great part in the world, whether for good or bad."

"We have come to meet the Chinese leaders and find out at first hand what is going on."

"We shall make up our minds on the basis of what we see and learn."

Carl Humphrey Speaks Before Rotary Club

Carl M. Humphrey, state advisor and superintendent of the program of the Future Farmers of America, was the guest speaker Monday noon at Rotary Club meeting at Bothwell Hotel. He talked on the Future Farmers of America and the Missouri State Fair.

Mr. Humphrey was introduced by Guy Peabody. Lawrence Barnett was program chairman. The meeting was presided over by William B. Rich, president, and invocation was by the Rev. Thomas W. Croxton.

Singing was led by O. W. Wiley with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

Guests introduced by W. O. Stanley were: Harvey Brimmer Jr., Chicago, guest of Keith Yount; Emmet Slusher of Farm Bureau, Jefferson City; Donald Roynard, Slater, guest of W. O. Stanley, and the Rev. M. Edwards, Jerseyville, Ill.

William C. Hopkins was introduced by Harry Naugeal as the "Baby" Rotarian. His classification is automobile insurance.

Roving Rotarians were: Frank Bryant, Excelsior Springs; Robert Johns, Grand Rapids, Mich.; and Dick Snow, Higginsville.

Lawrence Barnett announced that next Monday's program would be in the form of a round table discussion featuring what can be done to advance the service of the club.

Suggests Women Be Permitted To Assist In Christian Unity

EVANSTON, Ill. (P) — Men who view the groups look for conclusions on these subjects: International relations, evangelism, the Christian role of laymen, economic and political justice, racial issues, and Christian unity.

The sectional conferences will continue until late this week, before the first tentative reports are put before the assembly for action.

On the topic of Christian unity—the ideal which provides the council's basic motive power—it was Miss Barot who produced the newest slant on the problem, which usually swirls around theological questions.

In fact, she suggested it might be that if women had more to do with the unity movement, it would get along faster.

"Women seem to have an even more intense desire for unity, world Christian fellowship and mutual help than do men," she said. "This desire cannot be satisfied by the limited participation allowed them."

She noted only 38 of the 600 delegates were women, a slight improvement over the council's founding assembly six years ago when there were 19.

She said she did not favor the "aggressive feminism" which denies "any differences between men and women," but she said ideas which keep women from using their full abilities for the church "are outmoded."

Her appeal came as the World Council of Churches Assembly, including delegates from 163 denominations in 48 nations, worked to set down a joint Christian assessment of current problems of man and his society.

In six conference rooms, with some 100 delegates in each, separate discussions went on in an atmosphere of mixed accents and

New Cargo Plane Goes To Base for Testing

BURBANK, Calif. (P)—The Lockheed YC130, first turboprop power cargo plane built for the Air Force is at Edwards Air Force Base for extensive flight tests.

The four-engine ship was test flown there yesterday, a distance of 60 air miles.

The craft has a wingspread of 132 feet, double wheels on the nose gear and double landing gear wheels in tandem which retract into the fuselage. It can be loaded from the rear of the fuselage. Designed for logistics support, assault missions and air evacuation duties, it has 756 Allison engines capable of lifting it quickly. The plane was airborne yesterday after traveling one-third of the runway, engineers said.

Lebanon Begins Gigantic River Development

BEIRUT, Lebanon (P)—Little Lebanon is going to work on a 100-million-dollar river development project — biggest in its history — with no economic aid grants from foreign governments.

U.S. Point Four technicians conducted a three-year survey of the Litani River hydroelectric project, which is expected to double per capita consumption of electricity in Lebanon and irrigate more than 50,000 acres by the time it is finished in 25 years.

But when American officials handed the survey report to the Lebanese government, they felt the logical "cutoff point" had been reached. For actually building the system, Lebanon must bear the burden itself. The United States plans no direct government grants.

Lebanon's Parliament has set up a semiautonomous company to begin financing. The company will seek funds from Lebanese government sources, Lebanese private investors, foreign private investors and such lending agencies as the World Bank.

Some foreign experts here believe the whole project could pay for itself if built in stages, one phase paying for the next.

Orders Cops to Keep Feet Off Dashboards Of Police Cruisers

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (P)—City Manager Robert E. Layton wants policemen here to keep their feet on the ground. He ordered officers in police cruisers to stop using the dashboards of the cars as foot rests.

Since becoming city manager, Layton has issued 83 new rules and regulations for the police department.

Among other things, he banned "mooching" of food and drinks from stores and restaurants. Along with a "dress up" order he furnished police headquarters with a large mirror.

To forestall any headaches from all the new regulations, Layton directed the chief of police to keep aspirin available at all times.

Judge Is Left Cold By Claim to Beauty

BOSTON (P)—Mrs. Constance Wilmer's assertion that she was voted the best dressed girl when she was in high school didn't impress Municipal Court Judge Jennie L. Barron yesterday.

The woman judge sentenced the 22-year-old Mrs. Wilmer to five days in jail on a charge of larceny of $27.54 by using another woman's charge account in a Boston department store.

"I think," said the judge, "they should stop turning the heads of young girls with beauty queen and best dressed contests."

Bus Driver Gives Up; Leaves Passengers Stranded Downtown

INDIANAPOLIS (P)—The bus was plainly marked "North Meridian Express," but passengers kept buzzing to get off at near North Side stops.

Each time the driver sighed and stopped, explaining patiently, "This is an express bus."

At 20th Street, he stopped, turned to the passengers and announced, "I guess this is as good a time as any to quit." He picked up his coin changer and walked off the bus, leaving the astounded passengers to change to later buses.

Indianapolis Transit System said the driver quit because he was "fed up." His name wasn't announced.

Milwaukee Has 8 Days Left To Make Move

By BEN PHLEGAR Associated Press Sports Writer

The Milwaukee Braves have eight days left to get back into the National League pennant fight. After that it will be too late. The big tests start tonight when Philadelphia moves into County Stadium in Milwaukee for the first of three games. Then comes New York for two games and Brooklyn for four.

A sweep would make the Braves dangerous contenders. A misstep anywhere along the path could be the end.

Last week should be edged in black on Milwaukee calendars. Only seven days ago the Braves were a mere 3 1/2 games out of the lead and owned a nine-game winning streak. Then came four losses in six games and now they're 7 1/2 behind.

Although faced with a real battle to stay in first division, the Phillies have had a lot to say already about the positions of the first two teams in the pennant race. In the last week, for example, they personally added three games to the Giants' edge over Brooklyn by beating the Dodgers three games and losing three to the Giants.

Milwaukee holds a 9-8 edge over New York and a 10-6 bulge over the Dodgers so far. But against the Phillies the Braves only have been able to break even at 3-3. The Giants and Dodgers both open 10-game swings through the West today. The Giants stop off first in Chicago. Brooklyn begins in Cincinnati. Soon as the two clubs come home they collide in a three-game series at the Polo Grounds, Sept. 3-5.

The forthcoming week in the American League includes an extended tour of the Eastern seaboard by the fast-moving Cleveland Indians, prior to their final three-game visit to New York. The Yankees, meanwhile, will be nursing their wounds at home with two games against Baltimore, three against Detroit and a single date with Chicago.

Yesterday the Washington Senators whipped Philadelphia twice, 8-3 and 10-3. Eddie Yost and Jim Busby combined to drive in six runs in the double-header. Chuck Stobbs stayed all the way in the first game for his eighth victory. Gus Keriazakos pitched his first complete game in the majors in the nightcap.

Cincinnati's game in Milwaukee was rained out.

Eider Downs New Track For Runner Duck Races

POMONA, Calif. (AP)—If you read in your sports pages next month where Foot Goose and Fancy Free ran one-two at Eider Downs don't be misled into thinking a new horse racing track has opened.

Eider Downs is the name of the new 70-foot track at the Los Angeles County Fair Grounds and the ducks will be off and waddling over it Sept. 17-Oct. 3.

Yes, sir, Indian runner ducks, noted for speed and egg-laying ability, are going to hot foot it over Eider Downs daily for the amusement of thousands of spectators. There will be no parimutuel betting, however.

Favorite for the canvasback handicap opening day is Native Gander, but he has no previous record in a recurring wheel aliment. Eligibility rules place no ban on ducks with names resembling geese.

Winners of the bigger races will get an extra handful of choice grain, and their portraits will be painted on a large mural.

The ducks are trained to run over the track, which is patterned after the quarter horse tracks, by placing grain at the end of the lane. They learn fast, and the few who disdain the sport are retired to the laying bins, where they really star. One set a European record of 360 eggs in 365 days.

—But racing is easier.

Ex-Paratrooper Has Fun Fighting

NEW YORK (AP)—"Fighting is fun," says Wildcat Billy McNece, a 22-year-old former paratrooper who may make a lot of money doing what comes naturally. The big, reddish-blond middleweight from Central Islip, N.Y., added to his prestige with a decisive 10-round triumph over seasoned Garth Panter of Salt Lake City in a lively scrap at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena last night. McNece, a 1-2 favorite, outweighed Panter, 165 1/2 to 161.

One good win deserves another so today matchmaker Teddy Brenner and Manager Irving Cohen began negotiating with France's Pierre Langlois for an Oct. 11 date with Wildcat Billy at the Parkway Oct. 11. If they can't get Pierre, the two hope to corral either Joey Giardello or Rocky Castellani. McNece, whose record now is 11-2, won't be able to go before Oct. 11 because of cuts over both eyes requiring 10 stitches. The cuts were inflicted early in the bout with Panter but it didn't bother the bullish youngster a bit.

In the other television bout of the night, at St. Nicholas Arena, Chico Varona, sixth-ranking welterweight contender from Cuba, won a split 10-round decision over 35-year-old Frankie Fernandez of Honolulu.

CALIA ENTERS RACE—Vito Calia, Kansas City speed merchant, will see action Saturday afternoon in the big car auto races at the Missouri State Fair. The little Italian-American star, seven times champion of the Kansas City Midget Racing Association, will drive the 270 cubic-inch Sloan Offenhauser in the State Fair events.

Speed Events At The Fair This Weekend

Speed events take over again this weekend at the Missouri State Fair, with National Speedways big cars scheduled for Saturday afternoon and a 100-mile late model stock car race billed for Sunday afternoon. Both events will be on the mile track.

Entries in the big car race include Bob Slater, current IMCA national point leader and winner of last Sunday's 20-lap feature at the fair; Jack Larson Kansas City stock car king, who was second place winner in the big car race and the winner of the jalopy derby held at the fair Saturday and Jimmy Campbell, '52 National Speedways champion and third place winner Sunday.

Herschel Wagner, Independence, who suffered a fractured thumb in a spectacular flip last Sunday, will be back in action in Saturday's races. Phil Mocco, owner of the Circle Two Offy, which Wagner drives, said he would have the car ready for next Saturday's races.

Charley Lutkie, Wichita, Kan., driver, who crashed through a fence in the feature race Sunday, will also return to action. Lutkie was uninjured in the crash and says only a small amount of body work will be required to put his big No. 9 Offenhauser back into action.

Vito Calia, seven times champion of the Kansas City midget racing circuit, who had a lot of mechanical difficulty Sunday, says he will do a complete rebuilding job on his No. 77 Offy and promises the front running drivers plenty of competition in Saturday's go.

Lopez Will Not Go Out On Limb About Indians

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Al Lopez isn't climbing out on any limbs about the American League pennant chances of his Cleveland Indians.

Relaxing in the quiet of his hotel room, the ex-major league catcher says quietly of the Indians' 5 1/2-game league lead:

"We're still playing each game as it comes along. We're letting tomorrow take care of itself while we concentrate on today." That's been the philosophy of the soft-spoken Lopez ever since the Indians went into first place early in the summer and clung there tenaciously despite a dogged drive by the five-time world champion New York Yankees.

Lopez thought awhile when asked about the physical condition of the club and then replied: "We're in fine shape except for George Strickland, who still has his jaw wired up. He's been throwing a little and jogging and taking some batting practice and it won't be too long before he'll be ready to play a few innings." Strickland suffered a broken jaw when struck by a thrown ball in the last series the Indians played at Yankee Stadium.

How about mentally, Al? "Well, the boys have been convinced all along they had a good chance. They still feel that way."

Scramblers Pace US Amateur Field After One Round

DETROIT (AP)—Amateur golf still is a game for scramblers—in spite of the efforts of the pro to each "scientific" play and of the U.S. Golf Assn. to find a championship course that will penalize every mistake.

It was 1950 amateur champion Sammy Urzetta who voiced that opinion, just after being eliminated in the first round of the 1954 Amateur Championship at the Country Club of Detroit. And the results of yesterday's other first-round encounters supported his opinion.

Sammy definitely had been out-scrambled, losing on the 19th hole to Tim Holland, the tall young toy manufacturer from Rockville Centre, N. Y. And he was feeling pretty bad about it.

"I really wanted to make a good showing here because I want to make one more Walker Cup team," he said.

"And I was playing real good golf. I think the best since Minneapolis. That's where he won the Amateur four years ago. It just shows you still can scramble and win."

Urzetta was just one of the four ex-champions who failed to get through the first round. The only one of five entered who still was around for the second round today was Willie Turnesa (1938 and 1948). He drew a bye and didn't have to play.

Also on the sidelines were thinnam Charlie Coe, the 1949 winner; Ted Bishop (1946) and Chick Evans (1916 and 1920), along with three other prominent players as Frank Strafaci, intercollegiate champion Hillman Robbins; Ray Palmer, a quarter-finalist last year; and Fred Kammer, one of the Detroit favorites.

But the favorites got about an even break in the 72 first-round matches. Numbered among the winners were wisecracking Billy Joe Patton, the gallery favorite who won out on the 19th; Dale Morey, last year's runner-up; Harvie Ward, winner of the Canadian Amateur last week; Arnold Palmer; Don Cherry; and Hobart Manley.

Millions Feel Sympathy For Dancer's Loss

NEW YORK (AP)—Millions of persons who never saw a race course first hand in their lives experienced a feeling of personal loss at the news from Saratoga that the great grey horse Native Dancer had run his last race because of a recurring sore foot and would be retired to the stud next spring.

Those same millions who were privileged to watch the first television hero of the equine world compile his string of 21 victories in 22 starts also will feel they have a personal stake when the first of the Dancer's sons and daughters try to emulate their famous sire in the spring of 1958.

Never before has an animal so captured the imagination of the public at large.

But the comparative few who were privileged to watch the immortal Man o'War rack up his 20 of 21 more than 30 years ago will never agree that the darling of TV could have outfooted their horse under a load of weight. No one will ever know for certain how the two would have come out in a match race. But there are at least some interesting figures to play around with now.

Man o'War in his day set three American time records. The Dancer didn't set even one, yet this doesn't necessarily prove anything. The fact is a comparison of the best times set by the two horses at the nine distances they both ran shows Native Dancer would have beaten Big Red 6 to 3. Man o'War would have scored the most decisive victory of the series, by a matter of 3.4 seconds at a mile and a quarter.

The Man o'War dikeards will say today's tracks are faster, and many, many of them undoubtedly were. But it happens that each horse set most of his fastest times on the same tracks, at Saratoga and Belmont, which still have the same footing and contours they had in Man o'War's day.

Where Man o'War proved himself a wondrous night carrier in winning one big handicap under 138 pounds, the Dancer packed 137 as he ran away from a poor field in his final race last week at Saratoga. It would be fatuous to suggest the Gray Ghost couldn't have packed another pound on that occasion. And the Dancer proved he could win in any sort of going, including muddy, where we have always understood that Man o'War was kept off any track that was labeled worse than "slow."

Clay Target Champion Shooting at Vandalia

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP)—Five of trapshooting's most coveted titles, the clay target championships of North America, headlined today's program at the 55th Grand American.

Winners in the men's, women's, junior, sub-junior and professional divisions will be named in the 200-target, 16-yard event expected to attract about 850 entrants.

Fred D. Waldo of Sandusky, Ohio, winner of the men's crown in 1953, broke 199 of 200 yesterday in the introductory shoot.

Iva Pemerkova, 26-year-old rural school teacher from Phillipsburg, Kan., defender of the women's championship, cracked 196 of 200 yesterday. In an added feature she broke 98 of 100 in the regular event and 75 straight in a shoot-off to oustlast the feminine champions of the other states.

Bill Nelson, 16-year-old Brody, Neb., high school sophomore, who seeks the junior crown for the second straight time, broke 100 straight to win yesterday's "champion of champions" race for state title-holders under 18.

In other events yesterday, winners included: Men's veterans, over 70: Col. J. R. Hall of Ashland, Mo., 99 x 100. He defeated Herb Scharenberg Sr., of Montello, Wis., 25 to 24 in shoot-off.

Think Foreign Affairs Chief Campaign Item

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three Democratic senators said today foreign affairs troubles may overshadow the Eisenhower-pledged record of the Republican 83rd Congress as a top issue in the November election campaign.

President Eisenhower centered on the at-home record in his broadcast to the nation last night, heaping praise on Congress and hitting again at opposition "prophets of gloom and doom."

While dwelling only briefly on foreign relations, he did predict they "will be the thing on which we must have to emphasize our efforts during the coming months." And since the Republicans took office, he said, Korea, Iran, Suez and Guatemala are places "where great threats to our peace and security have already been removed."

While Republicans joined in praising the administration's legislative accomplishments, Democratic Senators Russell of Georgia, Mansfield of Montana and Jackson of Washington said that the apparent collapse of the European Defense Community and what they called an unfavorable settlement in Indochina may claim the chief attention of American voters. The senators spoke in separate interviews without directly referring to Eisenhower's speech.

Mansfield, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the status of international relations this fall "may well be the deciding factor in the election." Jackson said he thinks the Indochina settlement and indications that the EDC may never materialize "are creating skepticism in the minds of many voters about the administration's ability to hold the line against communism."

"The administration hasn't seized the initiative as it has claimed," he said. "It is the Soviet Union which has seized the initiative."

Russell, senior Democrat on the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the Republicans seemed to have changed their tune about Indochina.

He said Republicans were saying a few months ago that it might be necessary for the United States to send troops to Indochina. Now, he said, they are claiming that Eisenhower kept this country out of a shooting war there. Such a claim was made by Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, in a statement inserted in the Congressional Record.

Eisenhower said of Indochina last night that the war "has ceased under circumstances that are certainly not satisfactory to all of us, and in some respects they are disappointing."

"But at least we have an opportunity," he said, "to again tackle that problem of getting a concert of nations that will make this whole region safer and more secure for freedom."

Eisenhower's review of Congress' record drew applause from Republican Senators Watkins of Utah and Dvorshak of Idaho.

Dvorshak said the President "has placed a spotlight on a record that Republican candidates can take with pride into the November election campaign."

Bob Thomas In Hollywood—

Yvonne DeCarlo Is Amazed At Accounts of Her Love Life

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hollywood has long been amazed by Yvonne DeCarlo's love life, and so is she. At least by the things she reads about herself.

Just back from Europe and getting ready to leave for an Arizona film location, the much-traveled actress paused to clear up some of the misconceptions about her romantic affairs. This was no small matter.

Yvonne makes it a point never to blab about her real love matches. That's why so many fanciful tales appear in print about her. Recently she saw a clipping from a German paper proclaiming in big headlines that she was in love with a German baron.

"I was supposed to have left Cologne with dewy eyes because I couldn't bear to part with him," she observed. "Ridiculous! I've had a few dates with him, but that's all."

"Then there was the report that I had been attracting Peppermint Brown away from Princess Margaret. That one was really out of this world. I have never even laid eyes on the man."

One of the other fables she wanted to put to rest was that she was trying to steal Aly Khan from Gene Tierney. Such is not the case. She said that she, the Duchess of Devonshire, and two other women were linked to the Aly by a London paper. All were house-guesting at his villa and laughed over the report.

A New York paper chronicled her as a siren who caused men to battle over her. It described a Hollywood encounter at which Steve Cochran fought it out with another man.

"All I can say is that I have never witnessed two men fighting over anything, much less me," she remarked. "I say that with some disappointment. It would be fun to have someone fight for me."

The same article declared that she was once a model and had posed in the nude, a la Marilyn Monroe. The DeCarlo reply: "I was never a model, and I never posed in the nude."

She remarked that dating in Hollywood is a hazard. "Many of the men, and not only the actors, have press agents who plant items with the columnists about us," she said. "Sometimes it gets so bad that I have to tell them, 'Look, tell your press agent to stop working overtime.'"

Postmen Request Cards Be of Standard Size

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—If postal supervisors have their way, there won't be any more of those oversize or undersize postcards going through the mails.

The National Ass'n. of Postal Supervisors, at the opening of their 34th convention yesterday, adopted a resolution urging the Post Office Department to request all greeting card manufacturers to produce only a standard size.

How Do You Raise Children In Century of Delinquency?

By HAL BOYLE

VALLEJO, Calif. (AP)—How do you raise a child in the 20th century, which many people are beginning to regard as the century of juvenile delinquency?

I asked that question of my friend, Wyman Riley, managing editor of the Gibson publications here. He and his wife, Marjorie, have the problem of raising six children. How do they go about it?

"We don't think of it as a problem," said Riley. "And we don't have many theories about it. We like children, and try to make our home so attractive they would rather spend their time there than elsewhere."

The rollout of the Riley offspring (and the Lord only knows whether it is complete yet) is as follows: Margaret 15, Ellen 14, Brendan 9, Timothy 6, Michael 3, Sheila "going on one."

The Rileys live in a big, old-fashioned house, the kind that used to be built for large families, with plenty of yard space to play in. The house has four bedrooms, only one of which, Riley said, "is hung with my wife's clothing."

"Our home is big enough so that each kid has his own room," he said. "Each takes pride in his room and keeps it clean, and each kid has his own duties around the house."

"The older children help take care of the younger ones, and seem to like to. We are lucky in that we have two home-made baby sitters in our two older girls, and we pay them the going rate—50 cents an hour."

They are a close-knit family. Wyman and Marjorie both believe their main duties as parents are to teach their children good manners, give them a religious upbringing, and keep them busy in a wholesome way. They say family prayers together each night, go to bed together on Sundays.

The Riley home has a television room, and eight school desks, on picnics or clam digging parties together on Sundays.

"We don't ration them on television," said Riley. "The only rule is that they must finish their home work before they can watch it."

"Comic books aren't a worry with us. We don't have them in the house. Our children are great readers, but we started them off with good books, and now they seem to prefer them."

"Our two oldest girls are becoming interested in social activi-

Even Ike Must Buy Iowa Fair Ticket

DES MOINES (AP)—Even President Eisenhower will have to have a paid admission ticket to get into the Iowa State Fair when he speaks there—by invitation—Aug. 30.

"We are sticking to our policy of no free tickets," Fair Secretary Lloyd Cunningham says, "and that includes even the President of the United States."

"Somebody will have to pay for Ike, even if it turns out to be me. No free passes have been issued to the fair since 1948."

Philippines Object To British-Backed Security Pact Changes

MANILA (AP)—The Philippines objects to British-sponsored amendments to the treaty for a collective security pact in Southeast Asia, a Foreign Office official said today.

The British suggestions were received over the weekend from Washington. Representatives of the eight nations to participate in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization conference here Sept. 6 are trying to iron out a draft charter in the U.S. capital.

The official said the latest draft, incorporating the British proposals, does not envisage as elaborate a defense organization as the Philippines and Thailand would like. It would provide only for "mutual consultation" in case of aggression, he said.

Young Man Takes Swim In Hirohito's Moat

TOKYO (AP)—Imperial Palace guards today arrested a young man who was found swimming around with his clothes on in the moat that surrounds the palace.

"But exposition—explaining why one thing is right and another thing is wrong—works better than punishment. The mother sets them the example in most families, and our kids have been lucky in having the right kind of mother."

"I guess I sound like a pretty haphazard father, but actually our six kids are too happy to be much of a problem. We all like each other, and enjoy doing things together, and I guess that's pretty much the story."

"But about movies? 'Our kids aren't particularly interested in movies,' said Riley. 'They don't have to go out of the home to find entertainment. They have more fun at home. They like to bring their friends home, and we encourage them to do so.'"

Few crises arise in the Riley household that require punishment. "Restricting a child to his room, or cutting down his social activity in some way is enough," Riley said. "The important thing is to explain fully to a child why he is being punished, and never to punish him until he does understand why. Then he will take it in good grace. Children have a pretty fair sense of justice."

Mrs. Moss Asks For Accusers At Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Annie Lee Moss, again denying Communist ties, has asked the Army to produce her accusers at a security screening board hearing.

"I am not a Communist, have never been a Communist and have no communistic leanings or sympathies," the Negro woman said in a notarized reply yesterday to the latest charges against her.

The Army suspended Mrs. Moss for a second time Aug. 4 from a job with the Army Signal Corps. It said it acted "on the basis of information which was not previously available."

Mrs. Moss was temporarily suspended last spring from her $3,335-a-year position after Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) brought up her name at an investigation of alleged Communists in the Army. She denied before McCarthy's Senate Investigations subcommittee that she was the Annie Lee Moss an FBI undercover worker had testified was known as a Communist. The undercover worker failed to identify Mrs. Moss by sight.

After reinstating her, the Army suspended her again on charges she was issued a Communist party membership book in 1943 and on other counts similar to those she previously denied.

In denying the Communist book charge, Mrs. Moss said in papers filed by her attorney.

No time or place is given with regard to this alleged transaction, nor is there any suggestion as to the person with whom the transaction was made. It is my earnest desire that the author or authors of this information be produced in order that the error may be demonstrated and that I be given an opportunity to vindicate myself."

Russia Has Agreed To Equip 12 Divisions Of North Korean Army

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—The Chinese Nationalist Tatso news agency said today Russia has agreed to equip 12 divisions of North Korean troops by June 1955.

The agency said a four-point agreement reached by Russia, Red China and North Korea provides that:

- (1) North Korea form and train by June 1955 12 new divisions from the militia and reserves;
- (2) Russia will supply equipment;
- (3) North Korea will get two groups of fighters and one of bombers before June 1956;
- (4) Russia will expedite the transfer of an unspecified number of warships to North Korea.

Tatso attributed its information to underground contacts in Peiping.

The bayonet gets its name from the French city of Bayonne.

Man Spends 7 Hours Trapped In Wrecked Cab of Subway Train

NEW YORK (AP)—Motorman David Moclair, 32, spent seven agonized hours trapped in the wrecked cab of a subway train yesterday. Both legs were crushed and he was finally freed last night after one foot was amputated.

Moclair's empty train ran into a cement wall after a tripping device apparently failed and let it smash through a bumping block at the end of the track.

Rescue workers first used acetylene torches to cut through to Moclair, but the heat became unbearable for him and they turned to saws, which slowed progress. The motorman was comforted during his ordeal by his 16-year-old son and his wife, Mary.

Moclair could move only one hand, but this enabled him to reach for drinks of water and smoke an occasional cigarette.

Doctors on the scene gave him drugs to ease his pain. Moclair was taken to a hospital in critical condition.

Congress Puts a Foundation Under Ike's Economic Program, Fostering the Growth of Private Industry

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — With four solid chunks of legislation, Congress has put a foundation under the economic program that President Eisenhower stands for: one in which private industry, not big government, is intended to create the jobs and payrolls.

The four were the tax, farm, housing and atomic bills. All were geared to the philosophy of whittling down Washington's role as the central fountainhead of economic supports and controls.

A fifth measure, the broadening of social security, was evidence that the administration hopes to preserve and strengthen that program achieved under 20 years of Democratic rule.

There was a sixth item, which might be fully as significant as the others. It is something Congress didn't do.

It didn't rush to turn on the money pumps when the country's record-breaking prosperity began to ebb.

But, in the view of many economists, Congress left the government's operations still mildly inflationary. The spending program Congress largely approved, figures that Eisenhower proposed, and Congress largely approved, figures to outrun tax collections.

Some officials believe the federal deficit next June 30 will be closer to five billion dollars than the $2,900,000,000 officially forecast.

The economic philosophy developed by Congress and the administration held that government should remove needless controls, encourage business to expand and leave enough profit after taxes so that industry will build new plants, develop new processes and products and create new payrolls.

This was the kind of thinking behind the tax legislation, the decision to invite peacetime industry into atomic power, to ease rigid farm price supports and to give private enterprise the chief responsibility for providing a million or more new homes a year.

The Eisenhower program steered close enough to the middle of the road to win some Democratic support in many cases. But there were Democrats who criticized much of the program as being slanted in favor of big business.

By the time the session ended, the Democrats had laid up quite a lot of ammunition to shoot at Republican candidates in November. It may be effective if the GOP anticipated upturn in business fails to materialize.

Democrats critical of the Eisenhower program argued that the way to boost production and employment is to strengthen consumer buying power.

They fought unsuccessfully for across-the-board tax relief in the lower income brackets. They also backed high, rigid crop price supports.

In more detail, the major economic measures produced by the session were these:

TAX REVISION

The greatest achievement of the 83rd Congress, in administration eyes, is the massive tax revision bill.

In actual savings to businessmen and wage earners—a $1,363,000,000 reduction in the first year and more later—the law does not compare in impact with the five-billion dollar slash in income and corporate taxes Jan. 1.

But Eisenhower calls it the "keystone" of his program because of its potential stimulus to production and employment — by encouragement of investment, new plant construction and incentive to large industrial payrolls.

The law had many critics. There were contentions that it was loaded in favor of business and gave relatively little help to the average wage earner.

A Democratic amendment to increase personal income tax exemptions by $100 or $200—which would have excused millions from paying any tax at all—gained strong support for a time.

Denying that the act unduly favors business, administration officials insist the small taxpayer will reap many benefits. The law gives relief to families hit by heavy medical costs, working mothers who must pay for child care, re-tired persons living on pensions, parents whose children are helping to earn their college educations, and many smaller groups.

Stockholders are excused from all tax on the first $50 of dividends paid them. Four per cent of any additional dividend income may be deducted from the tax payment.

Officials expect this provision to induce greater investment in common stocks and provide more capital for industry.

THE HOUSING LAW

In the Housing Act of 1954, Eisenhower got a big bill which, some housing experts believe, may jog home builders into building 1,400,000 new homes in 1955. That would be the biggest year in history.

The law puts home ownership on a 5 per cent down and 30-years-to-pay basis. It thus reaches out to lower, but much broader, levels of buying power.

The act also will make it easier to sell used houses. The terms are 10 per cent down and 30 years to pay on modest dwellings, instead of 20 per cent and 20 years of payment. This feature is expected to encourage many growing families to sell their small homes and move into new and larger ones.

Government officials expect no housing miracles. They will be fair-

Styles of All Kinds Are Seen On the Grounds of State Fair

One nice thing about a state fair, people do just as they please. They dress as they please, and in Sunday there was every type of wearing apparel imaginable on the grounds. The women and girls of all ages should be seen in almost anything, bright colored shorts, pedal pushers, slacks, jeans full length or cut off, and many, very attractive summer dresses in all shades, styles and materials. Some even with hats very dressed up even in fall clothes.

"Such pretty dresses," commented a woman from Iowa. "These new materials are wonderful."

Then she looked over at a young man going through the building wearing a nylon shirt. "And the men?" she continued. "It is mighty nice that they don't have to wear those heavy clothes in the summertime like they used to. Look at the nice short sleeved, low neck shirts of thin material and such pretty colors they wear now."

She was hot and tired herself, and she was glad to see people dressed comfortably. That helped her.

"I wish my husband would come," she said. "I told him to meet me at the Art Building and that was ages ago. He just hasn't showed up yet. We were visiting in Kansas City and the folks wanted us to come down to the Fair. We couldn't get a seat for the races so we've been just wandering around. The men went to see the farm machinery, and we came here to see the fancy work and told them to meet us here."

"What building did you tell them to meet you at?" she was asked.

"The Art Building," she said. "Well, this is called the Home Economics Building, that is the way the sign reads. The Fine Arts Building is over to the south. Maybe they went there," she was told.

And so she and her friends got up and started over to the Art Building, hoping that they would find the men there waiting for them, so they could go home.

All around the Highway Gardens people were making themselves at home. Many had brought lunches, loaded the picnic tables with food and were having a grand time. There were plenty of seats of all kinds around which were pretty well filled most of the time. Weary fair visitors watched for empty seats, or maybe had a chair but had their eye on one that looked more comfortable. Then they would make a run for it. Some people took off their shoes and some stretched out on the green grass.

Every place you looked, somebody was eating something. There was noise a-plenty. People yelling their wares and people crowding around any stand that was demonstrating anything. Music and singing was coming from all directions. Balloons could be seen, everywhere, and now and then one would pop like a giant firecracker.

"This year the flowers are more beautiful than ever," people were saying. They say that every year. But this year, when the flowers in their own yard seemed to have such a terrible struggle and some didn't make it, the appreciation of the beauty was even deeper than usual. "How could they ever get those flowers to look like that after all the hot weather?"

Well, that's the fair, year after year, seeing many people you know, many more you don't know and talking to strangers as if you had known them for years. There are always many wonderful attractions with lots of new ones this year—but the sameness of the fair is the people. It's people that makes a good fair.

THE FARM PROGRAM

In winning enactment of a program of "flexible" crop price supports, the administration scored a substantial victory.

Rigid 90 per cent price supports on major farm products—Cotton, wheat, corn, peanuts and rice—were scuttled in favor of adjustable supports ranging from 82½ to 90 per cent.

With the new law the administration hopes to discourage the production of huge surpluses and begin working off some of the 6½ billion dollars worth of farm products held in government storage.

Foes of the change protested that any further drop in the long-declining income of farmers would be disastrous in many areas and, in a time of economic uncertainty, would help to push the whole country into depression.

As a compromise, Congress rejected the idea of making supports flexible down to 75 per cent of parity, as Eisenhower and Agriculture Secretary Benson recommended.

ATOMIC ENERGY

The atomic energy bill opened to private enterprise the glowing—if still somewhat remote—promise of a brand new industry, new payrolls and a promising new source of electric power for industry.

The act broke the government's monopoly on atomic energy by permitting private firms to own atomic reactors, which will be the "furnaces" for generating electric power; to own and use nuclear materials; to sell by-product atomic materials to the government; and to obtain patents on their own atomic inventions within certain limits. It also permits freer exchange of atomic information with Allies.

The bill became a battleground for the hottest and longest debate of the session. It was on the issue of private vs. public power. Friends of public power tried to amend the bill to prevent the Atomic Energy Commission from contracting with a private utility combine for power which would be fed into the Tennessee Valley Authority system—instead of letting TVA build the generators itself.

The power purchase plan had been ordered by Eisenhower personally.

After 169 hours of debate and filibuster, the administration forces won, on the TVA issue. But the friends of public power gained many concessions. For instance:

1. The AEC was authorized to go into the electric power business itself, selling energy from its atomic reactors.
2. Public bodies and rural electrical cooperatives were given priority in the purchase of any power produced by AEC, and were given priority as well in applying for licenses to build and operate atomic power plants.
